OVERVIEW OF PRESENTATION

There are many ways to convey bulk materials, and no one knows that better than Dos Santos International. With over 40 years experience in the industry, Dos Santos International is the world's foremost authority on high angle conveyor applications and design of sandwich belt type high angle conveyors.

While sandwich belt high angle conveyors have seen commercial use since 1984, a generation of materials handling professionals have retired from the industry and taken the knowledge of this highly regarding conveying system with them. This has left Dos Santos International with the task of reintroducing the system to this new generation.

During the 15-20 minute presentation, Joe will offer a brief history of his invention, the Sandwich belt high angle conveyor and its uses throughout the materials handling industry. He will discuss the technology and how this product of evolution has come to pay off in installations all over the world.

Additionally, Joe offers an invaluable education to those to those entering the industry and even those seasoned in the industry.
